

InsightOut

Enneagram Assessment

PREPARED FOR

Anders

Type 9 — The Peacemaker · August 13, 2026

WHAT'S IN THIS REPORT

PREPARED FOR

Anders

Type 9 — The Peacemaker · August 13, 2026

01	Welcome	1
	What this report is, how to use it, and what to bring to your debrief.
02	What Is the Enneagram?	2
	A brief introduction to the system: nine types, one dynamic map.
03	Quick Reference	3
	Your assessment results at a glance, and tips for your debrief conversation.
04	Exploring Your Type Hypothesis	4
	Your leading type, its core motivation, and how the pattern shows up in the real world.
05	Your Wings	6
	The two adjacent types that flavor your Nine, and what each one offers you.
06	Your Stress and Security Points	7
	Where you move under pressure and in flow, and how to draw on both.
07	Instincts & Subtypes	8
	Your dominant instinct, the three instincts, and what it means to be a One-to-One Nine.
08	Development Ideas for Peacemakers	9
	Practical ways to build courage, agility, and resilience, starting today.
09	Your Thoughts	10
	A closing note and questions to reflect and/or journal on.

A NOTE FROM CAI & MO

Welcome, Anders!

You just did something most people never do.

You took the time to look inward. That's not a small thing. However you were introduced to InsightOut (through a coach, a friend, or sheer coincidence), we're glad you're here.

This report is built from your answers to the InsightOut Enneagram Assessment. It introduces the basic Enneagram concepts, goes deep on your "home base" type, explores the dynamics that shape it, and offers development ideas for putting what you learn to work.

Hold all of it as a hypothesis to be tested in the real world. You are the final authority on your own type; what follows is a starting point. Our goal is to help you see yourself more clearly: what drives you, how you see the world, and why you do the things you do. That clarity is what lets you step out of your default patterns and bring more range to everyday life.

If you want to go further, connect with us or any InsightOut-certified coach, or visit www.hiveleadership.com/the-enneagram.

We're honored to be on this journey with you.

With gratitude and respect,

Cai Delumpa

Co-Founder, Hive, Inc.
Type 7 · The Enthusiast

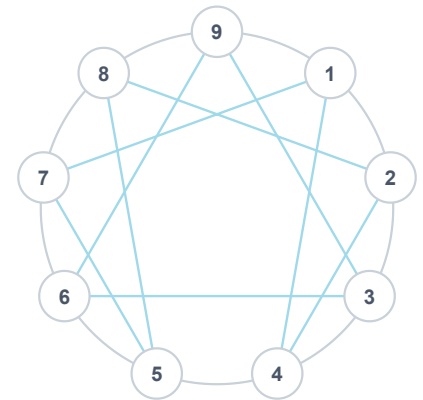

Monique Breault

Co-Founder, Hive, Inc.
Type 9 · The Peacemaker

What Is the Enneagram?

The Enneagram is a dynamic system that describes nine distinct ways of being in the world: nine strategies, shaped early in life, for how to get love, belonging, and control. Each type is anchored by a core worldview and a deep, core motivation that drives how we think, feel, and behave.

Understanding our type is about seeing the pattern clearly enough that we have a choice about it. Below is an introduction to the nine types and their core motivation, along with the gifts each one offers.

THE NINE ENNEAGRAM TYPES — SCAN EACH ONE

As you read, notice which descriptions pull at you, even slightly. That is the Enneagram beginning to work.

TYPE 1

The Improver

Sees a world that falls short of what it could be. Motivated to be good, principled, and beyond criticism. Attention goes to what is wrong or broken.

Gifts: Integrity, discernment, high standards

TYPE 2

The Giver

Sees a world where love is earned through service. Motivated to be needed and seen as caring. Attention goes to others' needs and relationship dynamics.

Gifts: Warmth, attunement, deep care

TYPE 3

The Performer

Sees a world that rewards results. Motivated to achieve and be recognized as valuable. Attention goes to goals, image, and how others perceive them.

Gifts: Drive, adaptability, inspiring

TYPE 4

The Individualist

Sees a world of infinite depth, with something always missing. Motivated to be authentic and deeply known. Attention goes to what is absent or lacking.

Gifts: Depth, originality, emotional honesty

TYPE 5

The Observer

Sees a world that is overwhelming and intrusive. Motivated to be competent and self-sufficient. Attention goes to ideas, concepts, and conserving energy.

Gifts: Clarity, insight, objectivity

TYPE 6

The Questioner

Sees a world that is unpredictable and unsafe. Motivated by security, trust, and preparedness. Attention goes to potential threats and who can be counted on.

Gifts: Loyalty, foresight, fierce commitment

TYPE 7

The Enthusiast

Sees a world full of possibility, threatened by limitation and pain. Motivated to stay free and experience life fully. Attention goes to options and what is next.

Gifts: Possibility, joy, generative energy

TYPE 8

The Protector

Sees a world where only the strong protect the weak. Motivated to assert strength and guard against injustice. Attention goes to power dynamics and who needs protecting.

Gifts: Strength, advocacy, courage

TYPE 9

The Peacemaker

Sees a world with underlying unity that conflict threatens. Motivated to maintain harmony and avoid disconnection. Attention goes to others' perspectives and common ground.

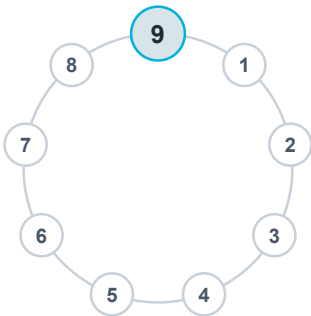

Gifts: Inclusion, steadiness, presence

For more detailed information on the Enneagram or each of the nine Enneagram types, visit us at <https://www.hiveleadership.com/the-enneagram>.

EXPLORING YOUR TYPE HYPOTHESIS

Type 9 · The Peacemaker

Based on your responses to the questionnaire, we're presenting you with Type 9 - The Peacemaker as the strongest hypothesis of your home base Enneagram type. We encourage you to hold this as a hypothesis until you've read through this report and/or have discussed it with your coach. Remember, you are the ultimate authority on your Enneagram type.

9 Core Motivation	To maintain inner and outer peace, stay connected to others, and avoid the conflict and discomfort that come with asserting your own priorities.
WORLDVIEW	The world has an underlying unity that conflict threatens. Your role is to maintain harmony and find common ground.	CORE BELIEF
		Keeping the peace keeps you connected. Asserting yourself risks the harmony you depend on.

THE PEACEMAKER AT A GLANCE
WHAT NINES WANT	To have inner and outer peace, and to experience a sense of belonging	WHAT NINES TEND TO AVOID	Conflict, discomfort, and feeling disregarded or disconnected
WHERE NINES TURN THEIR ATTENTION	The environment around them, potential conflict, and other people's agendas and claims on them	DRIVING EMOTION	Anger. Though present, anger goes unacknowledged in order to preserve inner and outer peace.

Typical Patterns of the Type 9 Peacemaker

1 THINKING	2 FEELING	3 BEHAVING
As a Peacemaker, your attention goes outward to everyone else's positions, agendas, and comfort, often more readily than to your own. Locating your own stance is the harder task.	As a Peacemaker, you carry a steady, even temperament, but that calm can sit on top of feelings smoothed over rather than fully felt. Anger, in particular, goes quiet first.	As a Peacemaker, your behavior organizes around not making waves: going along, smoothing things over, keeping everyone comfortable. Your steadiness is a gift, and sometimes a hiding place.

EXPLORING YOUR TYPE HYPOTHESIS (CONTINUED)

The Type 9 Peacemaker patterns described on the previous page usually run in the background, like an "internal operating system". The real power of the Enneagram is learning how to expand beyond our default patterns. The first step is seeing how our patterns show up in the real world. Here are some things to look for.

AT YOUR BEST

- Steady warmth. A receptive presence that makes people feel genuinely welcome.
- Holding multiple perspectives. Non-judgmental and inclusive, making you a trusted mediator.
- Steady presence. A calm, stabilizing force that becomes real strength when embodied.

YOUR GROWING EDGE

- Self-forgetting. You may manage everyone else's comfort while quietly losing track of your own.
- Merging. Agreeableness, repeated over time, can make you forget your own agenda.
- Quiet anger. Unacknowledged, it turns into inertia or passive resistance.

Communication, Conflict, and Decision-Making Styles

COMMUNICATION STYLE

Inclusive and Indirect

- You listen more than you assert. People rarely leave knowing what you actually think.
- Your real position forms later, in private. In the moment, you may not know it.
- Maybe, perhaps, I don't mind. Qualifiers take the edges off your point.

CONFLICT STYLE

Go Along to Get Along

- You find the reading where everyone is fine. What you reframe returns larger.
- Discomfort gets smoothed, not named. Relief now, a vague heaviness later.
- When pushed, you may dig in, become stubborn, and slow down the pace.

DECISION-MAKING STYLE

Every Option Counts

- Every choice has a case, so deciding feels like discarding rather than gaining.
- Your own preference surfaces last. Choosing on the spot is hard.
- Knowing what you don't want comes first. That is a usable starting point.

Catching Your Patterns in the Moment

SIGNS THE PATTERN IS SHOWING UP

- You say "yes" when you want to say "no".
- You withhold your opinion to not rock the boat.
- You ignore the tension in your body.

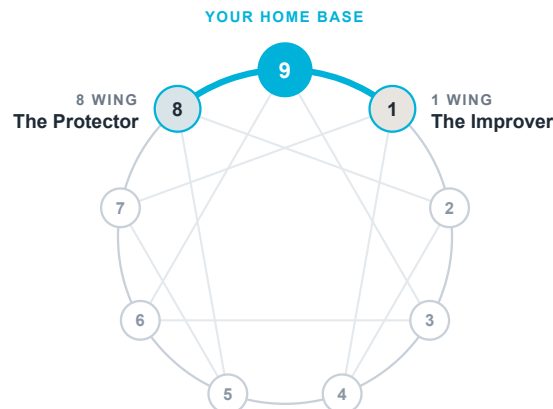

INTERRUPTING THE PATTERN

- Make a counteroffer instead of a flat-out "no".
- Speak your truth with no attachments.
- Pause, breathe, and be curious about the tension.

NAVIGATING THE ENNEAGRAM SYSTEM

Your Wings

Wings are the two types immediately adjacent to your home base type. Each wing "flavors" how your type shows up, and most people naturally lean more towards one wing. Both are always present, but which one shows up more is unique to you. When you access your wings intentionally they become valuable resources for balancing the automatic patterns of your home base type.

8 WING · TYPE 8

The Protector

A Nine with a strong Eight wing carries more edge, more appetite, and more willingness to push back when pushed. The Eight wing brings access to anger as a useful signal rather than something to manage away.

- You carry real presence, and you will protect others more readily than yourself.
- You can be direct, and you will confront something that matters to you.
- Once you know where you stand, you act on it.
- Others may find you more grounded and forceful than your easygoing manner suggests.
- Left unexamined, irritation can arrive suddenly and then vanish back into accommodation.

AS A RESOURCE

When you need to hold a position, take up space, or act decisively, reach for the Eight wing. It turns the Peacemaker's steadiness into something with backbone.

1 WING · TYPE 1

The Improver

A Nine with a stronger One wing carries more structure, more attention to doing things properly, and more internal discipline. The One wing brings a sense that things should be a certain way.

- You follow through on things, where Nine energy on its own might drift.
- You hold standards and want things done right.
- You bring care and craft to what you take on.
- Others may find you more orderly and idealistic than they expect of a Nine.
- Left unchecked, quiet perfectionism can turn self-forgetting into self-judgment.

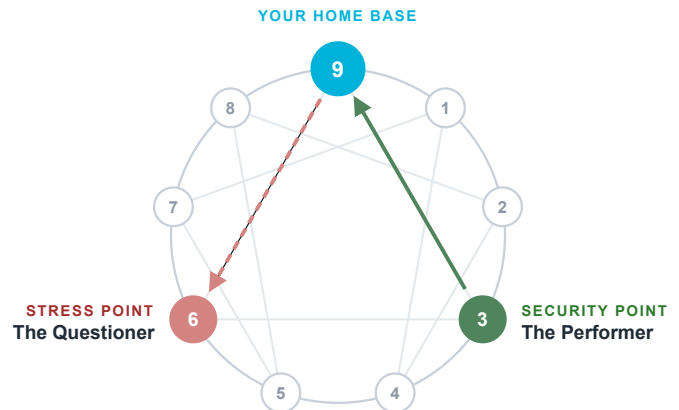

AS A RESOURCE

When you need focus, standards, or the discipline to finish something important, reach for the One wing. It channels the Peacemaker's acceptance into something more purposeful.

NAVIGATING THE ENNEAGRAM SYSTEM

Your Stress and Security Points

The Enneagram system shows you where you tend to move when you're feeling secure and in flow, and where you tend to move under an unusual amount of stress. Both moves happen in the background, part of the same internal operating system as your Home Base type and your Wings. When you access these points intentionally they become valuable resources to expand your range of choices in any situation.

6

STRESS POINT · TYPE 6

The Questioner

Under pressure, Nines shift toward Six energy — more anxious, doubting, worst-case-focused. The easy calm gives way to worry.

- Something that mattered got set aside to keep the peace, and it has not gone away.
- The scanning starts: every outcome gets checked, and none of them feels safe enough.
- The steadiness goes first: what usually holds you level is what starts to shake.

AS A RESOURCE

Draw on it when you need vigilance, preparation, and the will to face what you would avoid.

3

SECURITY POINT · TYPE 3

The Performer

When Nines feel safe and supported, they move toward Three energy — more focused and energized. Priorities come into view.

- The fog clears: you know what you want and you move on it without stalling.
- It becomes reachable when your own agenda is allowed to matter as much as everyone else's.
- Wanting something stops feeling like a risk to the peace, and starts moving you.

AS A RESOURCE

Draw on it when you need focus, drive, and the push to act on your own goals rather than defer.

Putting Your Resources to Work

Your Wings and your Stress and Security points give you more choices, and more range. The first step is catching yourself in the moment, pausing to notice, and then making a purposeful choice.

CATCH THE SHIFT

You notice yourself going along with something, agreeing easily, while the thing you actually think stays unsaid.

NOTICE THE IMPACT

The peace you are keeping is costing you your own position, and the worry underneath it keeps growing.

THEN CHOOSE

Name the one thing you want here, out loud, before the moment closes and going along becomes the answer.

QUESTIONS TO EXPLORE

Your Thoughts

Whatever landed as recognition is good data. So is whatever made you want to argue with a paragraph or two. This report is a hypothesis, not a verdict, and the only way to test it is against your own experience. The questions below are a place to start. An InsightOut coach can help you pressure-test any of it.

What's one thing you want to remember from this report?

What's one thing you're still curious about and want to learn more about?

What's one insight from Development Ideas you'd like to work on?

What would working on that insight give you?

What else would you like to capture?